Jefferson Together! has a new website:
Please visit at:
<http://jeffersontgether.com/>

The Jefferson United Methodist Church welcomes their new pastor and his wife, Bill and Joyce Hays.

Together they have served churches in Idaho and Oregon for over 20 years. Joyce and Bill are glad to return to the Central Willamette Valley to be part of the Jefferson Community. Bill's favorite quote: "Christ can only build community with seekers of the Truth not possessors of the truth." He is amazed to see the awesome work of the Jefferson Community Food Pantry hosted by the church. Watch for the "Coffee's On" sign in front of the church (310 North 2nd Street). Or, come to worship on any Sunday morning at 11:00 a.m. to meet Joyce and Bill.

Recent change in collection times at Jefferson Post Office!

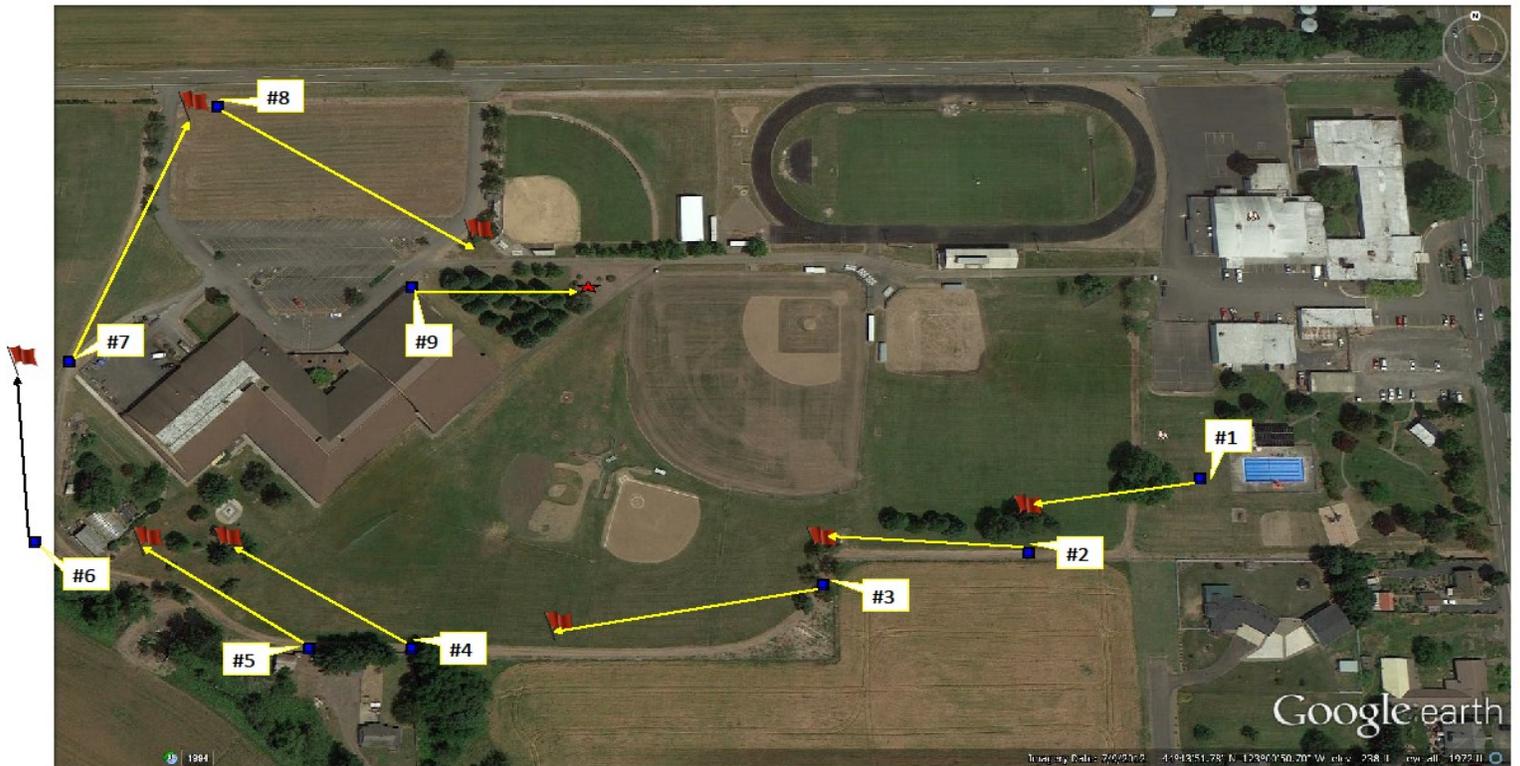

Mail must be received by 4:15pm at the counter or drop box to guarantee same day processing.

Jefferson School District 14J Announces a new 9-hole Disc Golf Course

Finishing touches are being added to the new 9-hole disc golf course around the district sports complex. However, the course is already fully functional and can be accessed by the community outside of school hours. School functions take precedence. No alcohol or tobacco of any kind this includes E-cigarettes allowed. Please take pride in this course and keep it clean!! This means people walking their dogs need to PICK UP THE POO!!!! Funding for the course has been provided through a wellness grant from OEA Choice Trust, a major supporter of school employee wellness. The course was built and designed by Chris Rosanbalm and Adam Whalen. Anyone interested in volunteering to help build, create, design or just clean this course please call 541-327-3337 ex.329. Also please visit JSD Disc Golf Course on Facebook and like us !! Look forward to seeing you out on the course!

JEFFERSON SCHOOL DISTRICT DISC GOLF COURSE

Course starts at the concrete slab (first tee pad) located behind the swimming pool, this is hole one. When you finish this hole just step back on to the path to your left and you will see the tee marker for hole #2, laid in the pathway. This is where you would Tee off for #2. All of the tee markers are laid in the nature trail pathway except holes #1 and #9. Hole one is the slab by swimming pool and hole #9 tee is actually on the concrete walkway at the NW corner of the gym. (see above map)

MARION COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE ADOPTS NEXTDOOR, THE PRIVATE SOCIAL NETWORK FOR NEIGHBORHOODS

The Marion

County Sheriff's Office is pleased to announce a new partnership with Nextdoor (www.nextdoor.com), which is a private social network for neighborhoods and neighborhood watches. It is intended to build stronger, safer communities through the help of residents. Nextdoor will enable the Sheriff's Office to communicate online with neighborhoods. Residents and the Sheriff's Office will be able to work together to improve safety and strengthen neighborhood watch efforts. With Nextdoor, Marion County residents can join private neighborhood websites to share information, including neighborhood public safety issues, community events and activities, local services, and even lost pets. The Sheriff's Office will be able to post information, such as safety tips and crime alerts, to Nextdoor websites within their community. "We believe in our communities and their ability to effect positive change by working together," said Undersheriff Troy Clausen. "With Nextdoor, we can help empower neighbors to keep their communities safe and to stay connected by giving them the ability to collaborate on virtual neighborhood watch efforts." Already, Nextdoor has proven to be a well-received tool for northeast and southeast Salem-area residents. Seven neighborhoods have already joined! Nextdoor is free for both residents and the Sheriff's Office. Each Marion County neighborhood has its own private Nextdoor neighborhood website, accessible only to residents who can verify that they live in the neighborhood. Neighborhoods establish and self-manage their own Nextdoor websites and the Sheriff's Office will not be able to access residents' websites, contact information, or content. Information shared on Nextdoor is password protected and cannot be accessed by any search engines. Those interested in joining their neighborhood's Nextdoor website can visit www.nextdoor.com and enter their address. If residents have questions about their Nextdoor website, please visit help.nextdoor.com.

Water Safety Tips

The Jefferson Fire District would like to remind boaters and swimmers to be safe on the rivers and lakes this summer.

- Adults as well as children should wear life jackets when boating or rafting.
- Be alert for snags and rocks both at the waters' surface and below.
- Carry a cell phone in a water proof container that is attached to you.
- Protect yourself from the sun; wear a hat and sun screen lotion.
- Let others know of your travel plans; where you are starting and ending, and when you are to be expected home.
- Take drinking water and a snack with you; it could be a long trip.
- Even on the hottest of days, the rivers or lakes temperature may remain cold and may cause hypothermia
- River flows vary and may run faster than normal.

Do not hesitate to call 911 during an emergency.

Summertime! With it comes extra free and unsupervised time for many youth. It's a time when risky behavior can happen. Instead, think about summer as the perfect opportunity to start some new health and fitness traditions with your family. Building healthy routines in families reduces risk for many problems including substance use. Here are a few ideas from Parent Further and Dr. Gene Roehlkepartain to get started:

1. Be a healthy role model. Our children and teens learn a great deal from our health habits—what we eat, what kind of exercise we get, and the lifestyle we live. Instead of just expecting our teens to eat healthy and be active, parents' own habits either reinforce or under-mine those positive messages.

2. Support kids' involvement in sports and other physical activities. Make it a priority to encourage your child to participate in athletics or other physical activities. This may involve providing transportation or offering to be a volunteer coach or program leader. Talk with your child about what he or she enjoys about the activities as a way of showing support and staying more connected to what matters to them

3. Set routines for cooking, eating, and physical activities. The most common reason people say they don't get exercise or eat healthy is that they get too busy. It can help to have a standard routine for when you shop for groceries, take walks, and cook and eat meals together. If you cannot exercise or eat together every day, decide as a family when you can plan to do these activities together.

4. Have healthy food available. Children and teens tend to eat what is around the house. If there are high-calorie snacks, desserts, and meals, they are most likely to eat those when they are hungry. If those foods and drinks are not readily available, they are much more likely to eat fruits, vegetables, and other healthy foods.

5. Have family meals together. Family meals are not only enjoyable and important for maintaining a caring, connected family, but they also help develop and reinforce good health habits and protect against unhealthy dieting or eating disorders (Neumark-Sztainer et al, 2010). Teens from families that eat together regularly tend to eat more fruits and vegetables, and they tend to consume fewer high-calorie soft drinks. Turn off the television, cell phones, and other electronics, and keep the atmosphere at meal times positive and friendly so that children and teens relax and value the positive time together as a family.

6. Limit screen time. Researchers (Lindsay et al., 2006) see consistently strong relationships between levels of physical activity in children and teens and their use of screens—televisions, computers, smart phones, tablets, video games, and other electronics. Some ways to encourage healthy technology boundaries include setting daily limits on screen time for all family members, keeping computers, phones, and televisions out of teens' bedrooms (particularly at night when they should be sleeping, not texting), and not using electronics during meal times or when doing homework.

7. Be adventuresome. Eating well and getting physical activity do not have to be difficult or drudgery. Go hiking or walking in places where you have never been before so that you can explore new sights. Try a new, healthy recipe each week—something that you cook together as a family. Go to a farmer's market to learn about and try fruits and vegetables that you haven't had before. If you are able, take a cooking class with your child, or join with other families for regular hikes, walks, games, or other physical activities.

8. Do physical activities together. Some families are already very active with sports and other types of exercise. But many are not. Find simple ways your family can get exercise together on a regular basis.

- Take a daily walk together or sometimes walk or bike instead of driving.
- Do yard work together, if you have a house, or work together in a community garden
- Do volunteer work in your community that involves physical activity.
- Make physical activity part of your vacation plans.

There's Still Time for Library Fun in August

It's not too late to sign up for the summer reading program and earn incentives for kids and prize drawing entries for teens and adults. August will be hot, so it's a great time to catch up on reading in a hammock with an ice-cold lemonade. If you have fallen behind in your reading, you can catch up. August 17-23 will be the tenth week for kids.

Important dates:

August 2 at 12:30 p.m. “Franken-toys”– This is a crazy activity for teens 13-17 years. Old toys and stuffed animals will be provided for you to cut apart and reassemble as you like. You can bring your own if you want to. Come see the example at the library and then gather up your teen friends and see what kind of Franken-toys you can create. Earn a candy bar for each person you bring. Each Franken-toy will be unique and we guarantee laughter as your creative ideas take shape.

August 6 at 2 p.m. Drawing for the big teddy bear for kids who have reported reading at least 10 hours

August 23 at noon: Drawing for the cool foosball game for kids who have reported reading at least 20 hours

August 28: Final day for kids to report hours and pick up incentives

August 30 at 10:00 a.m. Drawings for adult prizes
